GO TO PRISON

WELCOME to Cityopoly.
The OBJECT is to travel throughout our local community acquiring various properties such as hotels, restaurants, retail stores, radio stations, television stations and other well-known area businesses, and develop them into branch offices and eventually, skyscrapers. The entrepreneur with the most property, or the last one to avoid bankruptcy, wins!

To SET UP

— Each visitor (player) starts the game with $1,500 in denominations as follows:
One particularly trustworthy player is chosen to be the city treasurer. This person is responsible for handling the city banking account and for overseeing all cash transactions such as buying, selling, or trading of properties, as well as the payment of all fees, fines and so forth. $1,000 should also be placed on the "Lottery Square." Whenever visitors land on that square, they get to keep the money that is there, and the bank will put in $1,000 more.

STARTING OUT

— To begin, each visitor rolls the dice once. The person with the highest total rolls again and is first to move his or her token clockwise around the board according to the number shown on the dice. The order then also proceeds clockwise from the person who started the game.

— Visitors collect $200 everytime they pass the start square.

property where they first land or rolling again and continuing to move around the board. Players do not pay fines, receive rewards or cannot buy the property where they land if they choose to roll again. However, once a player chooses to roll a second time, they have to move the number of squares shown on the dice and must pay any fees (or receive rewards) required on that square.

VACANT PROPERTIES

— Whenever visitors land on any unowned property, they may buy it for the price listed on the board. Payments to obtain vacant properties go to the city offices.

— Once a visitor has purchased all of the properties in a particular neighborhood (all of the properties with the same color — all of the yellow deeds, for example), they may make improvements by adding branch offices and eventually, a skyscraper on those properties. The cost for each branch office is listed on the title card.

— Players can invest in branch offices only before their turn. Also, they must have an equal number of offices on each property in the neighborhood before they can add more branches to that color of property. For example, there must be once branch office on all three of the yellow properties before a second office can be added. The second office does not have to be added to all three yellow properties at once, however.

— After a visitor has improved a neighborhood of properties by adding four branch offices to each of them (these properties must be the same color), they may then purchase "sky-scrapers" for that group of properties.

OWNED PROPERTIES

— When visitors land on property owned by someone else, they must pay rent to that player. The amount of rent owed is listed on the title cards. It is based on the number of improvements on the property.

— Only the color-coded properties may be improved. Branch offices cannot be added to the middle square on each side of the board. Rent payments for landing on the middle squares are based on the number of these squares that a player owns. For example, if a player owns two middle squares and someone lands on one of those squares, then rent is $50; if the player owns three middle squares, rent is $100. The amounts due are listed on the title cards.

— Improvements cannot be made to the Business Service squares. (There are two business Service squares; one is two squares after the "Prison Square," the other is two squares before the "Go to Prison" square.) The rent payment for landing on the business service squares is four times the total amount shown on the dice if the property owner has just one service square and ten times the amount shown on the dice if the property owner has both service squares.

— In order to attain all of the properties of a specific neighborhood (color) so that improvements can be made on those properties, visitors can sell or trade with other players, but they can never loan money to another player.

TREASURE CHEST AND SURPRISE!

— Whenever visitors land on the Treasure Chest or Surprise squares, they must draw one of the cards in the center of the board and do as that card says. All fines are paid to the lottery square. Income tax payments also go to lottery square. Whenever visitors land on the lottery square, they get to take all of the money that is there.

PRISON

— If a visitor gets sent to prison by landing on the "Go to Prison" square or by drawing a card that tells them to "Go to Prison", they must roll doubles in order to get out. If a player does not get doubles in the first three rolls after going to prison, they get out automatically on the fourth roll, and move their token according to the amount shown on the dice.

MORTGAGING PROPERTIES

— Properties may be mortgaged to the city for one-half of the price for which they were purchased. All branch offices and sky-scrapers must first be sold back before the property can be mortgaged. The branch offices and skyscrapers are sold to the city for one-half of their purchase price as well. These properties cannot be sold to another visitor. They can, however, be traded for other properties.

— Visitors landing on a mortgaged property do not have to make rent payments to the owner.

— The owner of a mortgaged property may reacquire it from the city by paying the mortgage price plus 10 percent interest. No other visitors may buy a mortgaged property.

DECLARING BANKRUPTCY

— If a visitor mortgages all of his or her branch offices, skyscraper and properties, and still owes money, they must declare bankruptcy. At this point they pay all of the money they have toward their debts leave the game and then go home.

WINNING THE GAME

— The last visitor still owning property in our fair community is the winner, or a time limit can be set on the game. At the time limit, the visitor with the greatest net worth is the winner. The Net Worth is determined by adding the value of all cash, property, buildings and skyscrapers owned by each visitor.
